Employment Laws Update 2010

Date & Time: Friday, March 26, 2010, 8:30am – 11:30am
Location: BIA Office, 1536 Eureka Road, Roseville, CA
Instructor: Jordan Peters, Esq.
Fees: $69 BIA & Partner Assn Members; $99 Non-BIA/Association Members

California has an ever-changing legal landscape in which you operate your business. New laws and changes in existing laws can cause confusion and create liability for your company. In addition, in our current economic situation, many employers are finding themselves engulfed in litigation due to having to lay off employees or cut back on their hours. In such a situation, an attempt to save money could end up costing the company tens of thousands of dollars in attorney's fees and/or in a judgment ordered by the court payable to the former employee.

As an employer, you must be aware of the employment laws applicable to your business and to developing legal trends.

In this Seminar, you will learn the following:

- Information on current legal trends, namely what lawsuits are employees bringing? How can you protect yourself and your business?
- Information and discussion regarding important court decisions and legislation from 2009 and how those decisions could impact your business
- How to avoid common, costly mistakes made by employers in this economy when dealing with employees
